STORY & MENU

In Los Angeles, 1941, young Carl N. Karcher and his wife, Margaret, made a leap of faith and borrowed $311 on their Plymouth automobile, added $15 in savings and purchased a hot dog cart.

One cart grew to four, and in less than five years, Carl's Drive-In Barbecue opened with hamburgers on the menu.

The brand continued to grow with an emphasis on quality, service and cleanliness, pioneering fast-food firsts such as limited table service and self-serve beverage bars.

The introduction of The Six Dollar Burger® in 2001 marked the latest Carl's Jr.® advance in the quick-service industry, confirming the chain's unwavering commitment to food quality, innovation and service, along with a desire to satisfy the tastes of true burger lovers.

On his first day in the fast-food business, Carl N. Karcher took in $14.75.

More than 60 years and 1,000 restaurants later, Carl's Jr.® has become known as the place to go all across the West for big, juicy, delicious charbroiled burgers.
